Famed Columnist Walter Winchell Succumbs At 74

LOS ANGELES (AP)—As they met on a New York street, columnist Walter Winchell said "Mr. Hoover, this is Lepke," then he turned murderer Louis "Lepke" Buchalter over to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The negotiation of the surrender in 1939 of Buchalter was one of the best-known scoops engineered by the columnist-radio newscaster who died Sunday at the age of 74.

Winchell's death at UCLA Medical Center was attributed to prostate cancer. He had been confined at the center since Nov. 19.

Winchell had lived in seclusion in recent years, mostly in a Los Angeles hotel, and avoided the night life, the action and gossip that he had loved for decades.

From 1932 until the early '60s millions of Americans heard the nasal, staccato opening of his newscast: "Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. America and all the ships at sea; let's go to press." His voice never lost the pronounced accent of his birthplace, New York City.

Winchell punctuated his brisk delivery with the insistent beep of a telegrapher's key. His ylangy delivery had its print counterpart in the three-dotted style of the showbiz-oriented column he wrote for the New York Mirror and some 800 other newspapers from 1929 to 1969.

"He wrote like a man honking in a traffic jam," was the appraisal of another writer who surfaced in the exuberant newspaper world of the 1920s, Ben Hecht.

In a Winchell column, a gangster was a Chicagorilla; liquor was giggle-water; expectant parents were infanticidal.

The short, sharp-featured Winchell even had a visual trademark: a snap-brim hat which he seemed never to be without.

His "scoops" became newspaper legend despite frequent criticism of inaccuracy. New Yorker magazine once analyzed 239 column items appearing in 1940. It said 53 were accurate and the rest partly inaccurate, wholly inaccurate or unverifiable.

Hoover was a friend of Winchell, and in fact virtually everybody in the public eye for a generation was either a friend or an enemy of the columnist. (Continued on Page 2)

Snowstorm Fatal To 15 Across East

Ebensburg, Pa. Reports 45 Inches Of New Snowfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sub-zero cold settled over the Northeast today in the wake of a massive and violent snowstorm that left 15 persons dead in Pennsylvania and New York.

A state of emergency was declared in Pennsylvania by Gov. Milton Shapp. Emilien A. Levesque, director of civil defense for Maine, estimated storm damage in that state would reach into the millions of dollars.

In West Virginia, National Guard troops were placed on the alert to man rescue helicopters if needed in Preston County, hit by drifts up to 15 feet deep.

Ebensburg, Pa., was buried under a 45-inch snowfall and Binghamton, N.Y., reported two feet. High winds dropped the wind-chill index to 50 degrees below zero in the Albany, N.Y., area and winds to 50 miles per hour raked New York City, with the temperature in the teens.

Six persons died in Pennsylvania after collapsing while shoveling snow and nine such deaths were recorded in New York State.

Unseasonably cold air pushed down the Atlantic Coast to as far as Florida.

Over the remainder of the country, fair and dry weather was the rule, except for a few snow flurries near the Great Lakes and in the northern Rockies and isolated showers in Northern California and Alabama.

Middle East Talks Held By Jarring

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Middle East mediator Gunnar Jarring returned from Egypt Sunday and met today with Israeli Ambassador Rahamin Timor.

The ambassador said Jarring asked to see him "to establish contact" but the possibility of a visit by Jarring to Israel was not raised.

Jarring on his arrival Sunday refused to tell newsmen whether he would be going to Israel. "I shall tell you later," he said, adding, "I shall be staying in Cyprus for a couple of days. I still have my headquarters here."

Meanwhile, a Soviet delegation headed by Deputy Premier Kirill T. Mazurov flew from Moscow today for an official visit to Syria.

A major topic in the talks will probably be increased Soviet military and economic aid as part of a general effort to increase Russian influence in the Middle East.

Al Abram, the semi-official Cairo newspaper, reported that the Soviet Union has agreed to sell Egypt 16 jet airliners to renew its present commercial fleet.

3 Ohioans Killed In Florida Crash

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Myron Nestor of Columbus, 65 and retired; his wife Helen, 67, and his 49-year-old sister-in-law Borghild Nestor were killed Sunday in a two-car accident in South Orlando, minutes after they got off a plane for a Florida vacation.

Police said the Nestors had rented a car at the airport and were on their way to a hotel here when the collision took place. The driver of the other car was not seriously hurt.

8 Persons Drown In Florida Mishap

MOORE HAVEN, Fla. (AP)—Six children and two adults drowned when a 13-year-old sedan carrying 10 Potet, Tex., residents veered off State Road 78 and plunged into Fishcreek Creek 10 miles north of the Glades County town of Moore Haven.

The Florida Highway Patrol said two persons survived.

The patrol said the adults were migrant workers and were believed to have been traveling from citrus grove areas near Moore Haven to vegetable-picking areas near Okeechobee.

Precedes Conference With Chou

Nixon And Mao Meet

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP)—President Nixon met today with China's top leaders, holding separate talks with Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. Then, at a banquet in his honor, he said he was appealing to them to "start a long march together" with the United States toward peace.

"Not in lockstep," the President said, "but on different roads toward the same goal."

Both sides acknowledged the wide differences between Communist China and capitalist America but both expressed a desire for peaceful relations without compromising principles.

Nixon's remarks were made at an informal banquet given by the Chinese for him and Mrs. Nixon in the Great Hall of the People off to one side of Tien An Men Square—the Square of Heavenly Peace.

At the banquet, Chou spelled out China's terms for the establishment of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking.

And the President told Chou there is no need for the United States and China to be enemies, as they have been for the past 20 years.

It was the final event of Nixon's historic arrival day on the Chinese mainland as the first American president ever to do so.

He had spent an hour with Chairman Mao, the 78-year-old supreme leader of Chinese communism. Afterward the meeting was described as "frank and serious" by both the Americans and the Chinese. In Communist phraseology, frank and serious usually means disagreement.

Then the President conferred with Premier Chou.

Next came the banquet for the Nixons and the other Americans with them. A Chinese band played American and Chinese tunes and the Nixons ate with chopsticks.

Chou sat next to the Nixons during the dinner and made his proposals for diplomatic relations in his toasts.

Americans and Chinese are both great peoples who have always been friendly to each other "but owing to reasons known to all, the contacts between the two peoples were suspended for over 20 years," Chou said.

But, he added, the gates to friendship have been opened by a desire of both Americans and Chinese for a relaxation of tensions.

"The social systems of China and of the United States are fundamentally different, and there are great differences between the two governments," Chou said. "However these differences should not hinder China and the United States from establishing normal relations on the basis of five principles: (1) of mutual respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of nations, (2) of mutual nonaggression, (3) of noninterference in internal affairs, (4) of mutual equality, (Continued on Page 2)

Nixon's China Visit Brings Worries

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Special Correspondent

For world leaders who may be looking for things to worry about, President Nixon's talks in Communist China provide a rich mine of raw material.

A case can be made for the view that this week will advance hopes of peace, if only because a door once closed is now open. But a case also can be made for the idea that this week's meetings can set back peace hopes.

The picture of a triangle to big powers has a new dimension now. What will it mean for Asia? Will there be a perilous big-power contest in the Indian Ocean? Will a Chinese-Soviet struggle for influence in Asia be sharpened? Will Japan or India—or both—feel new pressure to acquire nuclear arms because of a fear that China's potential as a nuclear power will be enhanced by economic ties with the United States?

Washington has assured allied capitals that there will be no major policy change affecting them. Yet the fact of Nixon's arrival in Peking spotlights radical change affecting all in one way or another. Indeed, onlookers may wonder whether embers of an old American crush on China, even though it had been based on misconceptions, might not be about to burst back into flame.

Throughout the '60s, U.S. policy conveyed an idea of encircling and quarantining Red China. Now a profound change is developing. It is the Russians who seem intent on encircling and quarantining China.

It might appear to some that Washington and Peking share an interest in preventing dominant Soviet influence in the nations on China's periphery. The Russians patently are even more suspicious than they usually are. Thus they may be all the less likely to want to agree on vital issues.

There are so many imponderables in the presidential diplomacy that a case can be made for almost any prognostication, all the way from glowingly rosy to downright glum.

As the President begins his talks with Chou En-lai speculation on the impact might go like this:

Soviet Bloc

Moscow's recent effort to display a broad-minded attitude toward the Peking talks was unconvincing in view of a flood of propaganda indicating the opposite.

The Kremlin is unlikely to do anything that might upset the Nixon plan for a balancing Moscow visit in May, but it could, if it chose, use its influence indirectly to embarrass Peking while Nixon is there. One way could be to have others in the bloc stage a big international Communist protest on Vietnam, to emphasize that China entertains Nixon while U.S. forces war on a Communist regime.

Russia complains that Peking treats it as enemy No. 1. The complaint is valid enough. The Chinese, looking north, see a million Russians—land, sea, air and rocket forces—deployed on the frontier. Border talks, opened in 1969 after a serious military clash, have been stalled since. For China the threat from the north can seem all too real.

Peking could regard an opening to the United States as a means of giving Moscow second thoughts about any anti-China plans it might contemplate.

Japan

For 50 years after 1895, Japan was China's scourge. China today is far from convinced that Japan will avoid remilitarization. Peking regards Japan as her most potent future competitor in the economic arena and dreads the neighbor as a potential military power.

Main St. Saturday to "give people an outlet to express their opinions on serious problems such as alcoholism and drug addiction with the main purpose of winning them over to Christ" according to its director Euel Smith. With goals the same as area churches, the coffee house will attempt to provide Christian fellowship and growth, but in a less formal atmosphere. Doors open from noon till whenever every day where you can drink coffee or pop, and mix with others in "heavy" discussions and some scheduled programs.

Britons Await Flow Of Coal

Tentative Pact Ends Picketing

LONDON (AP)—Electricity cuts continued to black out homes and factories across Britain today and threatened to raise the nation's jobless total above 3 million despite the promise of an end to the coal miners' strike.

Despite a rush to get coal supplies to power plants by truck, train and ship, the Central Electricity Generating Board warned it would be "a long uphill battle to restore full supplies of electricity."

In the meantime, nine hours a day of power blackouts continued and factories remained on a three-day week. More manpower layoffs due today were expected to raise the unemployment total from 2.8 million on Friday to over 3 million, the highest since the Depression years of the 1930s.

Leaders of the miner's union agreed early Saturday to recommend acceptance of a 20 per cent pay raise for their members. They immediately called off the pickets that have kept coal supplies from reaching generating plants throughout the six-week strike.

Ballots went out to the miners today on the proposed pay settlement. They were expected to vote Wednesday. Acceptance would permit a return to work next week.

Jackie-Ari Quarrel Disclosed

NEW YORK (AP)—A tearful reconciliation cemented a rift that threatened to end the marriage of Aristotle Onassis and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in May 1970, the former chief steward aboard the Onassis yacht says.

Onassis had become irritated by a series of marital quarrels and suggested a separation, but his wife followed him to Paris and they made up, Christian Carafakis writes in the March issue of McCall's magazine.

Although Carafakis worked on the yacht "Christina," he drew on his access to other Onassis employees for the article, an excerpt from Carafakis' forthcoming book, "The Fabulous Onassis."

Onassis had pronounced the marriage a "total failure" and his wife silently accepted his suggestion of a separation during a confrontation in her New York City apartment, according to Carafakis.

The multimillionaire shipping magnate then flew to Paris and was photographed there that weekend with his former frequent companion, fiery opera star Maria Callas. The sight of the picture prompted Mrs. Onassis to fly to Paris, Carafakis claims.

By the time she arrived at Onassis' home "she looked exhausted, and when she took off her glasses her eyes were red and swollen from crying," Carafakis says.

Onassis was out and his wife waited, but when he returned "she rose, very pale, took a few steps toward him and threw herself into his arms, bursting into tears. It was this gesture that saved the day," the author writes.

Man To Get $24,960 Yearly To Polish Gilligan Image

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John Gilligan's new image man, J. Ronald Castell, says that "everybody likes to be loved, especially politicians."

Castell's job, for which he'll be paid $24,960 annually, will be to see that Gilligan gets his share of public adoration. Castell admits the task won't be easy.

"Quite obviously a guy who's been on the front pages for ten months talking about taxes is going to have a little tarnish on his halo," Castell says. "He can't come off like Little Mary Sunshine."

But the marketing expert says the job will be a challenge for him, a chance for a businessman to learn something about government.

Castell, 34, has been marketing vice president for City National Bank in Columbus for five years.

"Talk about image, can you imagine what we faced here at the bank," he says. "To the public, banks are stuffy places out to stick it to the little guy, but I think we've had some fun around here."

Among Castell's accomplishments at City National were a 24-hour cash vending machine operated with customer credit cards and promotion of auto loans with free car washes.

He says his job with Gilligan will be to accentuate the positive accomplishments of the administration.

"We've got to tell the average guy what government is doing for him," Castell says. "We've got a lot of information guys stuck all over state government, and I intend to see what they're putting out."

Among other things, Castell says the governor should get more exposure in "confrontation settings" like press conferences and panel interviews.

"I think he comes off well in a hostile environment," he says.

Castell came to Gilligan's attention through his friendship with Mark Shields, a former Gilligan staff member now working with Sen. Edmund Muskie's presidential campaign organization.

"All politicians are marketing themselves," Castell says, adding that he doesn't think Gilligan should alter his personal image.

"I don't think he should try to be something he isn't."

possibilities as a huge market of 800 million people. Japan's government now seems to feel abused by Washington because the Nixon-Peking development took it by surprise. Will Tokyo try to move closer to Peking and calm its fears?

America's Asian Allies

Technically, China and the United States remain at war. There was no peace treaty after the Korean armistice of 1953.

South Korea's President Chung Hee Park may wonder how long the Americans will continue strong military support of his regime against the Communist north.

As for North Korea, can it be happy with a picture of the President as the honored guest of its closest ally? Will North and South Korea both begin thinking in terms of communicating with one another?

Continuing U.S. support of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists represents the greatest single obstacle to normal Washington-Peking relations. But that does not exclude a possibility of Red Chinese-American collaboration on some other levels, notably the economic.

Taiwan may be a bit jumpy in its developing isolation. Chiang is 84, and those who must run the island after him may be pondering whether some approach to the mainland is indicated for an all-Chinese solution of their feud.

South Vietnam's leaders must be analyzing the cordiality between the heads of a government which has protected them and a regime that wants them overthrown.

On the other hand, Saigon's enemy may be uneasy, too. North Vietnam's leaders know Peking would not overtly pressure them to make a peace they wouldn't want. But Chou gives the impression that he feels the Americans genuinely want to get out of Vietnam.

If Vietnam no longer is an insurmountable obstacle to Washington-Peking communication, that in itself could be regarded in Hanoi as a form of pressure.

Thailand long has provided air bases and troops to the Vietnam effort. Its government occasionally has shown concern that it might one day be left holding the bag. Its leaders have little doubt they would immediately explore means of coming to terms with their huge Chinese neighbor—if the Americans left Asia precipitously.

India

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi indicates India wants to continue nonaligned. India fought a border war with Red China a decade ago and now has a treaty tying her to Moscow.

But prospects of being in the middle of a big power contest are not pleasant to contemplate, nor would India find any comfort in the idea that Washington might tacitly recognize China's claim to the Asian continent as its rightful sphere of influence.

The "Third World"

What Peking calls the "Third World" of weak nations, as opposed to the advanced ones, is a point of Chinese-American contention.

China pictures itself as champion of those nations against the designs of the superpowers. Some of those nations likely would just as soon not be thus defended, and will have noted with interest President Nixon's remark that no big power can presume to speak for any large bloc of nations.

The West

The Western Hemisphere, watching Nixon's spectacular tourism, will be looking for clarification of U.S. policies. How far, for example, will the United States withdraw from commitments it shouldered voluntarily after World War II in Asia and Europe?

For the foreseeable future, the United States still must contend with Chinese and Soviet regimes that remain committed to world revolution in one form or another.

For all their cordiality to the visitors, China's leaders still call for violent revolution as "the main trend" today. They are said to follow avidly all reports suggesting a weakening of the U.S. system.

That doesn't mean the Chinese expect that revolution in America is around the corner. It could mean to them, though, that an America seeking to protect home interests might seek to be less encumbered in Asia.

Pair Held For Bribery

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Two of three persons indicted secretly by a Lorain County grand jury investigating gambling in the county were arrested today by sheriff's deputies.

The men were identified as Willie Watson, 51, of Oberlin, and Theron Burnett, 38, of Elyria.

The pair was indicted by the jury for "offering a bribe and bribery" in the attempted bribery of an Oberlin policeman last year.

The men will appear Tuesday in Lorain County Common Pleas Court.

The grand jury, which started its gambling investigation several weeks ago, is not meeting this week. But authorities said the probe may continue later.

and (5) of peaceful coexistence." Chou laid down at the Bandung conference in 1955. This was an Asian nonaligned meeting in Bandung, Indonesia.

Nixon responded to Chou's toast by noting that if China and the United States remain enemies the future of the world is dark. He said common interests bring the United States and China together now to transcend their differences.

"As we discuss our differences," the President added, "neither of us will compromise our principles. Although we cannot close the gulf between us, we can try to bridge it so that we may be able to talk across it."

"And so let us in these next five days start a long march together. Not in lockstep but on different roads to the same goal: a goal of building a world structure of peace and justice in which all may stand together with equal dignity, in which each nation, large or small, has a right to determine its own form of government free of outside interference or domination."

"The world watches, the world listens, the world waits to see what we will do," Nixon asserted.

Near the start of his response to Chou's toast, Nixon had declared: "What we say here will not be long remembered. What we do here can change the world."

He complimented the Chinese band that played for the diners, saying: "I have never heard American music played better in a foreign land."

Among other selections, the band played the national anthem of each country.

The President and Mrs. Nixon sat with Chou at a table for 20 in the center of the Great Hall. The others sat at round tables for 10.

Mrs. Nixon, wearing an informal short red velvet suit with high neck and long sleeves, sat at Chou's left and the President at his right.

Congress Sets New Effort To Combat Absenteeism

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to kick members out of Congress if they miss more than 30 per cent of the roll calls during a session has spotlighted a serious problem for House and Senate leaders: absenteeism.

The refusal of many members to attend sessions unless they feel it absolutely necessary has effectively limited the congressional work week to three days and interferes with even that limited effort.

Frustrated by the dragging legislative pace of the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield delivered an unprecedented tongue-lashing to that body earlier this month, calling its record this year abominable.

"Sometimes I wonder how much of a conscience this body has," said Mansfield. "Sometimes I wonder how they can delay, how they can postpone, how individual senators can think of themselves foremost and the Senate secondarily."

House Speaker Carl Albert has been trying without success for a year to keep the House in session at least two Fridays a month. But the chairmen refuse to call up their bills on Fridays because too many members will be absent.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, blew the whistle on her colleagues last December by proposing a constitutional amendment providing for expulsion of any member of Congress who misses 40 per cent of the votes in a session. She reintroduced it this month with eight co-sponsors.

Now, Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex., has joined the campaign with an amendment introduced last week upping the required attendance to 70 per cent of the roll calls.

The problem, however, is not so much with missed roll calls as with getting bills up so the roll can be called. In the Senate, with unlimited debate, votes are continually being put off by keeping the talk going, to suit the convenience of members or the strategy of the opposing sides.

In the House, where strict limits on debate prevent any delay in voting, chairmen with important or controversial bills won't bring them up until they think the time is ripe, and then only in midweek.

In the last Congress a major bill had to be taken off the calendar at the last minute because the recently married chairman handling it had promised his bride a look at the fall foliage in New England and it was at its peak that week.

Senators and representatives always answer complaints about absenteeism and the short congressional work week by saying they have to spend time in their home districts in order to be re-elected.

But Mansfield reminded the senators that they are elected to look after the interests of the people in their states.

"If this were an industry we would pay the price of not being here, and if we did not produce we would be fired," he said.

Winchell was born in Harlem, the son of a silk merchant who abandoned his wife and two sons. Growing up in foster homes, Winchell was a newsboy at 8.

In 1909, when he was 12, the mother of a neighborhood pal got the boys jobs as ushers in a theater, where with a third they formed a singing trio billed as "The Little Men with the Big Voices."

The pal was George Jessel, who went on to a show business career of his own.

Informed of Winchell's death, Jessel told a newsman, "He was one of the greatest newspaper reporters who ever lived. He will be remembered and missed as a personality, but not as a man. He was mean to nearly everybody."

After service in World War I Winchell tried to make it in vaudeville as a song-and-dance man.

His show business career didn't get far, but after showing talent at picking up backstage gossip he became a reporter-photographer-adman for the Vaudeville News. From there he went to the tabloid New York Graphic where he developed his rapid-fire writing style.

Winchell stopped writing the column in 1969 shortly after his son, Walter Jr., committed suicide. Winchell's wife, June, died the following year in Phoenix, Ariz.

Winchell is survived by a daughter and three grandchildren.

Enemy troops shot down a U.S. light observation helicopter on a reconnaissance mission 25 miles northwest of Saigon, then shot up three other helicopters trying to aid the downed aircraft. Two crewmen were killed and one was wounded, the Command said.

A sixth helicopter was shot down in the Mekong Delta while on a reconnaissance mission, but the crewmen escaped uninjured.

Two Americans were wounded when a tank triggered a mine 25 miles northeast of Saigon. The South Vietnamese command reported 65 enemy attacks across South Vietnam on Saturday and Sunday.

VFW Delegates Oppose Amnesty

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Delegates to the Seventh District midwinter conference of the Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars have approved unanimously an anti-amnesty resolution.

The resolution, adopted Sunday at the closing session of the three-day conference here, stated that the VFW "opposes any form of amnesty for those who have or will in the future evade Selective Service or deserted their military units." The resolution added that granting of such amnesty would be unjust "in view of the hardships endured by those who served."

'Happy Hour' Provides Entertainment

On February 15, Logan Elm students and faculty were treated to a "Happy Hour." Several students and members of the faculty took part in the event. Mr. Doane Wiggins and Tim Haley shared the responsibility of being master of ceremonies.

The hour started off with the Varsity Basketball team singing and dancing to a song entitled "Two Faces Have I." Members participating were Doug Barnett and Brad Barr, lead singers Alex Jones and Tim Justice, lead dancers; and Gary Benner, Mike Holbrook, Randy Knece, Doug Marshall, and Jeff Young. Next came several songs by Rita Lear, Holiday Parker, Sheri Allen, Jim Fosnaugh, Rick Withers, and Mark Bower. They were followed with a song sung by Sheri Allen and her father, Roger.

Following this was a pantomime of Tom Jones by Joe Search with dancing girls to his side. Sheri Allen, Teresa Radabaugh, Debbie Collins, and Judy Barnhart, ably assisted by Mr. Playko, succeeded this with several skits.

The event came to a dramatic conclusion with a Barbershop Quartet composed of Mr. Fletcher, Mr. Price, Mr. Allen and Mr. Welch, ably accompanied by Miss Jones.

RONALD BAKER
High School Science

Ronald Baker is the new science teacher here at Logan Elm. Mr. Baker graduated from Ohio State this last fall where he received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education.

Living in Newark, Ohio with his wife, he has quite a distance to travel to Logan Elm each day. Mr. Baker teaches general science, earth science, and has one physical education class. He took over Mr. Burger's classes which have had several teachers in the past few weeks, and he has only been with us since the last week in January.

Mr. Baker enjoys sports very much and stated that hiking is one of his favorite activities.

This interview was made on Mr. Baker's sixth day of teaching at Logan Elm, and he stated at that time that he had not yet formed any basic opinion of the students and the school. He did make one observation: "From what I see, the school is very conservative — most of the students' hair

Pick Tourney Opponents

Last week Coach Pritchard drew for the team LE would be playing in upcoming basketball tournaments.

The tournaments will be held at a different place this year, Grove City High School. Grove City has a fine gymnasium with a large seating capacity to hold all of the teams' loyal fans.

Ohio Deaf is the school's first competitor in the tournaments. This game will be played on February 26, at 8:30 p.m. If the first game is a victory for LE, the team will play West Jefferson next.

The first two games will be rough, but Logan Elm hopes they can come on with a lot of team spirit and determination and can beat both to win a spot in the District finals.

Will Participate In Competition

On Saturday, the Logan Elm Boys' and Girls' Ensembles and several solo entries from the school will compete in contest at Ohio State School of Music.

Solo contestants are: Sheri Marquart-flute, Jan Feldman-flute, Vanessa Mills-vocal solo. A trumpet trio will also compete. Its members are Linda Fosnaugh, Dan Phillips and Vicki Carsner. Logan Elm would like to congratulate freshman Laura Kerns who on Sat., received a superior rating at the Feb. 12 district contest at Otterbein College.

The LE staff would like to welcome Mr. Baker to Logan Elm and hope that he enjoys his teaching career here and his association with the faculty and students.

Open Letter

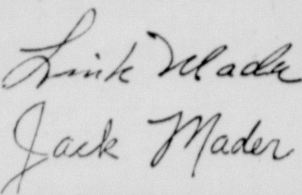

Dear Friends,

In time of need you would not hesitate to ask a good neighbor for certain favors. We want you to feel the same toward us. So many things crowd in upon a family when death comes to the home that a neighborly, personal-interest service is often needed. We try to meet such needs, not merely in a professional way, but just as a kindly neighbor.

Respectfully,

Central State Freshman Slain In Dormitory

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP)—A Central State University freshman was shot and killed Sunday night in his dormitory room, the Greene County Sheriff's Department reported today.

The student was identified as Charles A. Bowen, 22, of Cincinnati.

The sheriff's department says the shooting occurred around 6:30 p.m., but that apparently there were no witnesses.

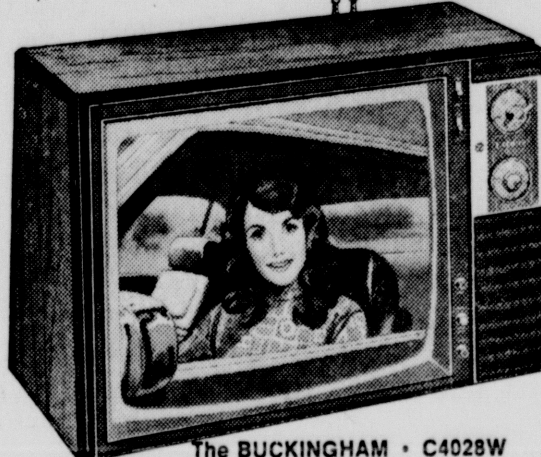

No weapon has been found, and no suspects are being held, the department said.

Clothing has come a long way from a strictly utilitarian covering to maintain comfort, at least in advanced societies. Even the Soviet Union is changing its emphasis from the baggy to the fashionable.

The trend to relaxed informality has been particularly noticeable in the United States, with sporty cuts and lively colors well ensconced now in men's fashions. A slightly more subdued trend has been seen in some circles recently, but this is far removed from the staid tailoring of yesteryear.

One article of clothing has found it difficult to make the grade through the transition period of the last two decades.

Men's hats are still in decline. Through all the variables of temperature and climate, the bare head stands exposed.

In 1970, 250,000 dozen fur felt hats were manufactured in the U.S., compared to the 3,000,000 dozen produced in a typical year of the first decade of this century when the population was one-third what it is today.

So precipitous has been the decline that the largest manufacturer of men's hats has decided to end production. The decision by HCA Industries Inc. to license its Cavanagh, Dobbs, Knox and Champ brands to a smaller manufacturer follows by a year a similar decision by the John B. Stetson Co.

Perhaps from the exodus of these two giants will come a rebirth of the hat. As long as frigid cold, rain and snow continue to make their rounds, some men will insist that is the only way to go — outdoors.

Better Linguists

In the not too distant past, instruction in foreign languages in this country did not begin until high school. But in recent years it has been introduced into the elementary school curriculum, a development which is showing beneficial results at the college level.

Some educators credit the linguistic advance to improvements in teacher training and teaching methods. These have seen the old deadly routine of formal grammar and vocabulary memorizing replaced by a system emphasizing speaking, reading and writing.

American inferiority in language skills, in comparison with other countries where multilingualism is general, has been widely deplored. It has been a problem in this nation's conduct of foreign affairs.

The new emphasis on linguistics in schools augurs well, both for a better rounded education for young people and for American leadership.

Dynamic Mars

Imagine a place which is so inhospitable its terrain is largely composed of dried up river beds and seething volcanoes. Except every 25,000 years or so when everything is inundated by rainfall for weeks at a time.

Just to add a little frosting on the picture, it is also a place where rain falls up, not down, most of the time.

That is the latest picture of Mars. As a result of Mariner 9's continuing close look at the Red Planet, scientists are nearly ecstatic at what they have been able to see.

"Mars has turned out to be far more dynamic than we thought it would be," commented Harold Masurski of the U.S. Geological Survey. "In fact, it is changing right in front of us."

As for water rising from the planet, it is really vapor and appears to be released from cracks in the Martian crust. One volcanic crater has been found which is estimated to be 300 miles across. All in all, Mariner 9's vantage point is about as close to Earth's sister planet as any but the foolhardy adventurer would care to go.

Do you ever wonder how much a woman really eats when someone says she "eats like a bird"? Well, if she eats like a robin, she's a pretty heavy eater. This bird eats 70 earthworms a day. If the robin weighs half a pound and the woman weighs 125 pounds, she would have to consume 17,800 earthworms daily to match the bird's appetite.

Fertile world: People aren't alone in being capable of population explosions. All kinds of species, animal or vegetable, have this incipient capacity. Aiding The Elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has issued a new publication on housing for the elderly and the handicapped.

The 46-page bibliography, entitled "The Built Environment for the Elderly and the Handicapped," contains background information on the housing situation for the elderly both here and abroad, on architecture and space use, fire prevention, senior centers, residential communities, nursing homes and the problems of relocation.

A section is devoted to the design of public and private buildings for the disabled and the handicapped.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have a constant feeling of heaviness around the lower abdomen. Sometimes I can barely get through a day of chores and taking care of the children without complete exhaustion.

Otherwise I think I am in good health. Would you explain?

Mrs. L. V. Ala.

Dear Mrs. V.: There are a number of explanations for such a constant sense of fatigue along with pressure in the lower abdomen. None of them should be applied specifically to you without a thorough examination.

Yet one of the most common causes is that this complaint occurs in women who have given birth to a number of children. Occasionally, the muscles and the ligaments that support the uterus (womb) are weakened during delivery.

The relaxation of the muscles fails to give adequate support, and a heavy "dragging" sensation can occur.

This can readily be diagnosed, and, if necessary, surgery can be performed to relieve the depressing heaviness and fatigue that accompany a fallen, or "prolapsed," womb.

I have had four cysts removed in the same spot on my face. Why do things like this keep coming back?

Miss R. B. E., Mo.

Dear Miss E.: The likelihood is that your cysts were not "removed," but rather "opened" to release their fluid content. Once a cyst is removed from a particular spot, the sac is taken out and cannot come back.

We must also consider that there are so many cystic glands underneath the skin, lying close to one another, that it is difficult to say that the "same spot" produced a cyst.

Is it possible for a doctor to tell if a person has a strep throat just by looking at it?

Mrs. M. M., Idaho

Dear Mrs. M.: The exact diagnosis of a strep throat can be made only by a culture taken from that area.

A swab is taken and then sent to the laboratory where it is incubated and studied. If the streptococcus germ is present, it is readily identified.

Doctors who have seen many red throats often suspect that the streptococcus germ may be responsible and most often they are correct, even without positive confirmation.

There are many effective antibiotics that completely destroy the strep germ. This type of infection no longer holds the terror for patients and doctors that it formerly did.

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

TAIPEI, Taiwan — Taipei is as I remembered it from six years ago. The same casual quality of the common life. The roller skaters in the rink below the Grand Hotel. The outdoor lessons in ballroom dancing to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." The workers doing setting-up exercises in individualistic ways. The sign advertising the "Happy V.D. Clinic." The kidding in the shops when they try to sell you a real Ming vase. Only the traffic patterns have changed: the pedicabs are gone as downtown Taipei watches the sometimes hair-raising ballet of 750,000 scooting motorcycles, sedan cars and taxis.

After the dour Japanese, the Chinese anywhere look happy. The New York Times's Scotty Reston noticed the quality of busy serenity in Communist Peking. He could have seen the same characteristics in capitalist Taiwan. The Chinese aren't a cringing race, so you can believe it when the Taiwan — or Republic of China — Vice President-Premier C. K. Yen, who must have the most orderly brain in the Free World, says the 14 million inhabitants of his beleaguered island will never bow before any truculent challenge. This could be just an official line, but when you hear it from Jack Chou, the managing editor of the China Times, a Chinese-language newspaper, you are invited to believe that the UN expulsion has been the unifying equivalent of a Dunkirk evacuation or a Pearl Harbor.

Taiwan's defensive strength of 600,000 young soldiers (the day of Chiang Kai-shek's "aging veterans" has long since passed) can be taken for granted provided the U.S. honors a defense commitment that is made necessary by the simple fact that mainland China has 4,000 planes and Taiwan only 500. As long as the U.S. Seventh Fleet controls the waters hereabouts, Taiwan is safe. It is vulnerable only to U.S. indecision or an officially unthinkable duplicity.

Since they are as courteous as all Chinese, the representatives of the Republic of China Foreign Office profess their smiling gratitude for President Richard Nixon's reassurances that our tie to Taiwan will remain a binding one. But they think — and do not hesitate to say so — that their intelligence about what is happening on the Chinese mainland is far superior to Washington's. They make much of the fact that the Red Chinese "pecking order" consists of faceless — an, indeed, nameless — men once you have gone a couple of rungs below Chou En-lai, who is Number Three doing pro tem Number Two duty for the vanished Lin Piao.

Red China has had no Chief of State since Liu Shao-Chi was bundled off the stage. The veteran party cadres at the so-called county level, who were accused of "following the capitalist road" in the period of the cultural revolution, are being rehabilitated, presumably because of an acute governing shortage created by the disappearance of Lin Piao's apparatus.

The stream of refugees escaping by essaying the chilly waters of Deep Bay at Hong Kong or by land routes into the New Territories still continues: 138 were captured by Hong Kong police during January, the highest Jan. total since 1968. The Hong Kong estimate is that only one-fifth of the total of illegal immigrants is ever apprehended. The Americans with President Nixon, you are told, will see only the cities where Mao Tse-tung can enforce strict safety; there are other regions, notably rich Szechuan, home of the hot cuisine, which "run themselves."

Whether this is more significant intelligence than that Henry Kissinger or the CIA have been able to command cannot be proved: the very symbolism of the Nixon trip, which is beamed by radio from the mainland to Taiwan as evidence that "Nixon comes to surrender," may serve to give a previously nonexistent authority to the nameless and faceless men whom Mao and Chou have had to advance to replace those of the "Lin Piao clique."

We may, in short, be giving Mao a transfusion of good strong blood by supposing that he does not need one, which is hardly sensible diplomacy. At least that is what Taiwan has been trying to tell us, and I, for one, fear that Taiwan is right.

You Can't Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — After a broken parking meter swallowed his two dimes, Francis J. Colletta sued the city.

"The parking meter is a symbol of this machine age and I'm going to fight it," Colletta, a university student, said in People's Court.

Judge Vern J. Munger Jr. awarded the youth a 20-cent settlement.

But Colletta could not collect it until he paid the court 50 cents for a machine-made copy of the judgment.

Pickaway County Agricultural Society announced that William Cook, Park Place, would take over the job of county fair manager. He replaced Fair Board Secretary Henry Reid, who was moving to Georgia.

A program to build an 1,800 acre recreation park and lake in the Pickaway-Ross, Fayette County area received an additional boost when it was announced that plans for an aerial survey of the proposed site were completed. The survey was made on a private basis by residents of Circleville and Pickaway County known as the Tri-County Lake Organization.

Much criticism was fired at Circleville's new garbage collection plan. Most of the complaints were made by independent haulers who protested the citywide system of collecting and disposing of garbage and rubbish. George Bininger of Pike County won the city father's bid for the contracted service.

Safes in two Ashville businesses were cracked open. The safe at Ashville Grain on Main St. was discovered blown open and $140 taken. Thieves drilled their way into the safe at the Scioto Grain Co. across the street and took $250.

Joseph Caldwell and Sidney Graves were selected winners in the annual Youth Leadership Contest sponsored by the Elks Lodge. Caldwell was a senior at Circleville and Miss Graves a senior at Pickaway Twp.

Circleville member of the Communications Workers of America voted against the latest agreement on the phone company contract, 27 to 2. The agreement called for a small wage increase and acceptance of the union to drop their request for a union shop.

Sen. Muskie Leads Latest Gallup Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine continues to hold a lead over the field of 1972 Democratic presidential hopefuls despite a six-point gain by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, according to the latest Gallup poll.

A Gallup spokesman said Sunday that Muskie is favored by 29 per cent of Democratic voters nationwide, compared with 24 per cent for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and 23 per cent for Humphrey.

The poll was based on interviews with 605 Democrats out of a total sampling of 1,450 persons between Feb. 4-7.

The poll said Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota was favored by 5 per cent of those interviewed, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota by 3 per cent each, Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York and New York City Mayor John Lindsay by 2 per cent each, and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana by 1 per cent each. Seven per cent had no preference.

If Kennedy's name were eliminated from the list, 9 per cent of his supporters would vote for Humphrey and 6 per cent for Muskie, 3 per cent for Lindsay and 2 per cent each for McCarthy and McGovern, the poll said.

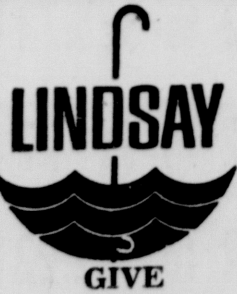

The vote, with Kennedy out of the race, would be 35 per cent for Muskie, down 4 per cent from a similar January poll, and Humphrey 32 per cent, up 3 per cent from the January poll.

Congratulations. You just saved $5 by doing your own income tax.
And all it cost you was three long,
sleepless nights.

And a slight case of heartburn.

If you had gone to H & R Block, on the other hand, you could have relaxed while someone else figured out your return. Quickly and confidentially. Probably unlike any way you've ever done it before.

And, when you figure your own, you may be entitled to deductions you're not taking and taking deductions you're not entitled to. For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging"? And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H & R Block. We have over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel. They're warm and friendly people who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed.

Furthermore, if your return is audited, we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

This means that H & R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates. H & R Block's charges start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Which is somewhat less than what you paid. Not to mention the fact that aggravation isn't tax deductible. And we are.

Church Circle Discusses Students And Educators

Discussion was held on students of today during the February meeting of Circle 2, Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, in the home of Mrs. Roy Groce, 447 E. Main St.

Circle leader, Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe, welcomed the guests, Miss Clara Lathouse and Roy Groce. She opened the meeting with prayer and a reading "The Valentine House."

Spiritual life chairman, Mrs. Carl Wilson, read an excerpt from a 17th century writing found in the old Baltimore church, containing the thought "You Are A Child Of The Universe — You Have A Right To Be Here." Mrs. Wilson urged that members attend the World Day of Prayer on March 3rd at Calvary United Methodist Church. The program will use the theme "All Joy Be Yours." Members were also asked to remember in prayer the forthcoming revival at the local church as well as the special Lenten Services.

Mrs. George Ankrom, chairman of missionary education, announced that books for the Reading Circle will be brought to the meeting. Requests for any specific books may be made to Mrs. Ankrom.

It was announced that a food sale will be held in the near future. Help will also be needed to work in the canteen for the February visit of the Bloodmobile Unit to be on Thursday at the Service Center of Good Shepherd Church.

Mrs. Earl Dean and Mrs. Harold Baker were appointed to provide the spring flowers for the Service Center and members volunteered to launder the dish towels for specific months.

Announcement was made that the Clothing Center is in need of toys, baby clothes and children's clothing. Anyone having articles to donate may contact Mrs. Clydus Leist, social relations chairman. Members were requested to vote on a change of name for the General Women's Society. Results of the voting will be announced following a meeting of the General Board.

The evening's program was led by Mrs. Owen Fullen using "Higher Education And Today's Students" as her topic. Mrs. Fullen said a prayer and read "Remember The New Year."

Mrs. Marie Goodman read Scripture from St. Luke, Chapter 2, verses 41-57. Mrs. Fullen led discussion on many of the problems confronting students, education and educators today. She said there is great need for understanding the student situation and realigning responsibility in order to make education more meaningful. There is need to consider specific areas of concern to students and to provide opportunities for discussion of major issues.

Differences in the attitudes of students, then and now, were noted with emphasis on the question, "What do Today's Students Want?" and how to create understanding between students and teachers. Members participated in discussion following the program. Assisting Mrs. Fullen were: Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Earl Dean, Mrs. Stella Morris, Mrs. Clarence Merz, Mrs. Verneal Thomas, Mrs. Harold Baker and Mrs. Clydus Leist. Mrs. Radcliffe said the closing prayer.

Mrs. Groce was assisted in serving refreshments to the 17 members and two guests by Mrs. Robert Riser, Miss Clara Lathouse and Mrs. Radcliffe.

Junior Women Will Replant Trees At Park

Circleville Junior Women's Club will plant White Pine trees at A. W. Marion State Park again this year as part of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and Sears sponsored community improvement project.

In May of 1971 the club planted trees in the park. The trees were purchased through the Ohio Division of Forestry by Richard Schmachtenberger, Pickaway County Service Forester, who volunteered his professional services and assistance. Boy Scout Troop 205 aided in this service project.

Through the austerity program and closing of the park in early autumn, the trees were mowed down much to the dismay of the club members. The club's CIP chairman, Mrs. Robert Ogden wrote to Governor Gilligan requesting his assistance and assurance that this wouldn't happen again. The Governor replied that through the Department of Natural Resources the club would be sent replacement trees. He also sent his apologies.

The first fair Saturday in April the CIP committee will replant trees in the park with the assistance of Mr. Schmachtenberger. Serving on the committee are: Mrs. John Farthing, Mrs. Wayne Hatfield, Mrs. Robert Holycross and Mrs. Robert Liggett.

Berger Guild Makes Plans For Election

Berger Hospital Guild 30 met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, Route 4, with 11 members and one guest present.

At the next meeting election of officers will be conducted. A chance gift was brought by Berdine Gifford and won by Pauline Arnold.

The remainder of the evening was spent playing games with prizes awarded to Mrs. Tacie Dumm, Mrs. Sue Collins, Mrs. Zelma Bower and Mrs. Elsie Miller. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Young Adult Class Meets

Young Adult Class of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church met Saturday evening in the Service Center for a carry-in dinner.

For devotions Sue Steele read Matthew 5:14-16. Present were 18 members including four new members: Miss Nancy Fee, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hughes and Julie Hughes.

A white elephant sale was conducted with Ted Young as auctioneer. A skating party is planned to be held in April.

The next regular meeting will be March 18th in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Steele.

'Learning Disabilities' Is Nurses Assn. Program

Mr. Bruce E. Beckert of the Reading Research Foundation, presented the program for the February meeting of Pickaway County Registered Nurse Assn. at Pickaway Manor.

"Learning Disabilities And Their Remediation" was the subject of a movie and very interesting talk presented by Mr. Beckert. These children usually exhibit a gap between their tested intelligence and their tested reading achievement level. Problems in this area are often extremely subtle, the children are most often very bright but are not working up to capacity. Some outstanding characteristics most commonly associated with the syndrome are (1) hyperactivity — in constant motion, restless, fidgety; (2) distractible — unable to maintain concentration of his attention; (3) impulsivity — does not plan ahead or think about consequences; (4) laterality — cannot tell left from right or up from down, may reverse letters when writing, etc.; (5) lack of auditory dimensions — has difficulty with phonics; (6) clumsiness — lack of coordination.

In 1965 the Reading Research Foundation was founded to perform research into the problems of learning disabilities and their remediation. A result of this research was the development of an effective perceptual-motor training program.

One of the major goals of this training is to develop a flexible capacity for self-control (inhibition) for the children. With this ability to stop and think before they react, the children are able to choose among the countless patterns of stimulation competing for their attention. It is their opinion that both the distractibility and the hyperactivity are due to defective central nervous system processes.

The following is a brief description of the techniques used.

The child is put through the movements which are learned during the period of sensory development (eight weeks to one year of age).

They insist that the child pay attention — do not allow his attention to wander. Time is spent on academic remediation — eye-hand coordination, phonics, reading comprehension. The children's progress is measured. It usually takes three to five semesters of ten sessions each for the child to reach a normal level of achievement.

Elaine Bowman, president, conducted the business meeting with 18 members present. It was announced that Blood Bank will be held Feb. 24 at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

Mary Walters reported that the finance committee had decided to hold a Silent Bake Sale as a money-making project. Members were also asked to begin saving articles for a garage sale to be held in the fall.

The next meeting will be a tour of Children's Hospital and visit with Dr. Blancha Smith. Members are to meet at 7 p.m. at Pickaway Manor and proceed to Columbus from there. Rides will be available.

Refreshments were served by Ruth Hukill and Ruth Bryant.

China Seeks To Curb Population

By HARRY ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — China, as every schoolboy knows, has more people than any other country in the world. But how many? Not even the Chinese know.

The estimates range from 753 million to 871 million, says the Population Reference Bureau, Inc.

Writing in the group's Population Bulletin, Leo A. Orleans, China research expert of the Library of Congress, says there is good reason for this uncertainty.

"The only Chinese census that even approaches modern demographic standards was taken in 1953 and the results of that exercise are highly questionable. Birth and death registration, another means of estimating population, has been made only sporadically," Orleans says.

Orleans writes that China appears to have gone through the same medical-public health revolution that has brought down the death rate dramatically in many underdeveloped countries since World War II.

"At the same time," he says in the bulletin to be published next week, "official Chinese statements have encouraged a growing trend toward later marriage and smaller families and the few observations made by Western visitors—now becoming more frequent with the thaw in relations between China and the United States—seem to confirm this trend."

Orleans says that after the 1949 revolution the new Chinese regime was eager to change the age-old Chinese pattern of child marriage and the traditional low status of women. China had a marriage law in 1950 that raised the minimum age of marriage to 13 for women and 20 for men.

The article says that after the 1953 census some Communist party officials promoted birth control as a way to improve health and welfare of women and children.

In 1958, the article says, family planning fell from official favor under a program known as The Great Leap Forward. But the Great Leap, emphasizing speeded up industrialization and the use of all available labor, lasted only a short while.

"In 1959 China entered an economic crisis that focused all efforts on survival—a dramatic change from the grandiose plans of the year before," the article says.

A check in population growth found favor again as the Chinese economy began to recover in 1962.

The second surge of birth control apparently was more effective than the one in the '50s; mobile medical teams carried the message to the countryside and contraceptives appeared to be available readily.

"The trend seems to have continued into the 70's and early marriage and numerous children 'are considered to be un-Maoist and reactionary,' the population research bureau says.

"Being older in America, even if healthy, prepares you fairly well for the isolation that often comes with a catastrophic illness."

His remarks were made before a group of 500 professionals in the medical, legal, religious and social service fields participating in a symposium which has just been published by Cancer Care, Inc., entitled "Catastrophic Illness in the Seventies: Critical Issues and Complex Decisions," priced at $3.60 a copy.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Older people appear to cope better than younger ones with the isolation, loneliness and alienation which accompany catastrophic illness," says Dr. Leslie S. Libow, chief of Geriatric Medicine at Mount Sinai City Hospital Center at Elmhurst.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Older people appear to cope better than younger ones with the isolation, loneliness and alienation which accompany catastrophic illness," says Dr. Leslie S. Libow, chief of Geriatric Medicine at Mount Sinai City Hospital Center at Elmhurst.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Good Sex Manual Needed

DEAR ABBY: A "WILLING WIDOW" wrote that she wanted to marry a wonderful widower, but he told her that he had had surgery which terminated his sex life and therefore would not marry her.

She had sworn to him on a stack of Bibles that sex was of little importance to her, but he still wouldn't marry her.

She appealed to you, and you said: "Get a higher stack of Bibles!"

Abby, Your answer greatly disappointed me. That woman doesn't need a higher stack of Bibles. She and her gentleman friend need a good sex manual.

It is tragic that so many men believe that because of a physical condition, or advanced age, they are useless sexually. It simply is not true! Just as a man who has lost a limb must learn to walk again, that widower must learn to satisfy his partner with other techniques. He sounds like such a fine unselfish man. Please reconsider and suggest a really explicit "how to" book.

MRS. L. M. IN COLUMBIA, MO.

DEAR MRS. M.: You are absolutely right! I'll take 10 whacks with the best "how to" manual I've ever come across. It's "A Doctor Speaks on Sexual Expression in Marriage," by Donald W. Hastings. ("Human Sexual Response" by Masters and Johnson is also excellent, but it's twice as thick!)

DEAR ABBY: In regard to the teen-ager who wanted to entertain her friends at home, but got a lot of static from her Dad who criticized their music, their dancing, and complained about the noise:

We've always encouraged our 16-year-old daughter to have her friends over. We have pizza and soft drinks for them, plus we sit in the kitchen watching black and white TV while the kids are in the living room with the color set.

Now, I ask you, when things turn up missing after her friends have been there, what do we do? Also, my husband has sinus trouble, but those kids light up one cigarette after another until the whole house smells like a poolhall. Then they walk out without even a goodbye or thank you to the parents.

When we see some kids in our home we've never seen before and ask our daughter to introduce us, she says: "They don't do things like that anymore." (Don't they?)

Please answer this in the paper. I think other parents might be interested in your reply.

TWO OLD SQUARES
DEAR SQUARES: When things turn up "missing", you should promptly inform your daughter, who should in turn question her friends.

If you can't find some effective way to eliminate (or at least minimize) the smoke, you have to tolerate it, but people with manners still say goodby and thank you. I don't know who "they" are, but parents should be introduced to everyone who spends an evening in their home.

DEAR ABBY: Those letters from secretaries and their dilemmas over receiving pornographic mail addressed to their bosses gave me a great big pain.

In the first place, what is "pornography?" Even the United States Supreme Court can't agree. Suffice it to say that it's every secretary's duty to open her boss' mail and give it to him. If he didn't order any of the porno and doesn't care to receive it, I am sure he knows how to put a stop to it. If he did request it, what right has a secretary to withhold it from her boss?

One of my bosses used to get postcards regularly urging him to call a certain number to arrange for a "massage." He laughed and told me to throw such cards in the basket. Another boss I worked for (a well-known political figure.) asked me if I would be willing to receive copies of a certain magazine at home, because his wife wouldn't permit them in the house. I agreed, and brought them to the office in a plain envelope for him to read.

Let's you think I'm an old frump, I hasten to explain that I'm happily married, am considered attractive, and have had my full share of passes from the opposite sex.

If I were a boss, I wouldn't want a secretary in whose presence I had to watch every word for fear of offending her. A busy executive usually has enough problems at home and doesn't need more at the office.

Industry Work Week Up Above 40 Hours, Report

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The average work week in manufacturing plants has edged upward to slightly more than 40 hours as demands for goods increase, Industry Week magazine said today.

The average factory work week was below 40 hours in the first 10 months of 1971, but rose to 40.1 hours in November and 40.3 hours in December, the best since January, 1970, the business weekly said.

The magazine said it checked companies in major industries and found that about half the firms are adding hours.

It acknowledged that overtime increased some last year, but companies are working to keep it down. The work week has held steady with the help of layoffs, the magazine said, "and some gains have been made possible because furloughed employees haven't been recalled."

"Thus, hours worked are not an entirely positive indicator, although they do indicate the general trend of business."

The steel industry's average work week in December was 34.3 hours, Industry Week said. A major steelmaker recently reached the 40-hour level and will stay there, it said.

Raw steel production was estimated at 2,430,000 net tons, for the week ended Feb. 19, the magazine said, compared with the previous week's 2,362,000 tons.

The magazine's No. 1 heavy melting scrap composite rose to $35.50 per gross ton, the highest since last March. The previous week's composite was $34.83 per gross ton.

Ohio Air Pollution Control Board To Ponder Permits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Polluters of Ohio's air have until Aug. 15 to ask the Ohio Air Pollution Control Board for permission to continue.

Under the state's new air quality control statutes, air polluters must now apply for permits, like those issued to cities and industries who pollute the state's water.

State engineer Jack Wunderle says the board will be deluged with thousands of requests for permits. He says most will come in around July and August.

To qualify for a permit, each industry will have to show it is making progress toward bringing its pollution down to an acceptable level.

The new law gives the state until mid 1975 at the latest to achieve its clean air standards. Wunderle says there are about 5,500 plant sites in Ohio where permits will be needed.

"But on some of those sites," he says, "there are several pollution sources. Industries are going to seek multiple permits so if they have one bad actor on a plant site, the state won't shut down the whole operation."

The board has six months to act on each application after it is submitted. Wunderle says polluters will be classified so the worst ones can be handled first.

"We'll just have to tell the others to go ahead operating until we can get to their applications," he says.

The board recently completed its master plan for cleaning up the state's air and sent it to the federal Environmental Protection Agency office in Chicago for approval.

Although it appears the approval will be granted, the decision will not affect the permit requirement.

Ohioan Dies In Suspicious Air Crash

FAIRFIELD, Idaho (AP) — Five persons died Sunday when a twin-engine Sun Valley Airlines Plane blew apart over this tiny county seat and the Federal Aviation Agency says it's not ruling out the possibility of a bomb.

Among the dead was the president of the small feeder line, Rolland Smith of Boise, who was piloting the 10-passenger Beechcraft.

Three other victims were identified. They were Otto Carlton of Hailey, Idaho, a mechanic, and passengers Leslie P. Merritt, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Dr. Harold McCabe, a Columbus, Ohio, dentist.

The identity of a third passenger was withheld by authorities pending notification of relatives.

FAA Supervising Investigator James Pendergast said he was not ruling out the chances of foul play and that the investigation would continue today.

He said a preliminary investigation and eye-witness reports indicated an explosion occurred prior to the crash. FBI agents combed through the wreckage Sunday.

A Sun Valley spokesman said all 14 scheduled flights made daily by the airline would be suspended pending an investigation.

INJURED TWICE — Sharon Anderson, 16, who was caught twice by bomb blasts, is carried to hospital after the first incident at Belfast offices of British Caledonian Airways when she was passing the premises. Later as she was walking home, she was injured by the blast of a bomb planted in a car, and had to return to hospital. (AP Wirephoto)

Humphrey Hits Nixon Law And Order Record

By MICHAEL PRETZEL
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says the Senate's upcoming hearings on President Nixon's nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst as attorney general should be broadened to include an examination of the administration's record on law and order.

The Democratic presidential hopeful called that record "at best minimal and at worst a failure."

Humphrey told the B'Nai B'Rith Radio and Television Lodge in New York Sunday that Nixon spent $22 million in a 1968 broadcast campaign promising that he could win the war against crime and violence.

"But no American is free of the fear of crime today," the Minnesota senator said.

Humphrey said he was troubled by Nixon's nomination of Kleindienst to succeed Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who resigned last week to run the President's re-election campaign, but refused to say whether he would vote against confirmation.

Another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, attacked Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls, predicting they will result in "inflation as bad as World War II and Korea."

In a closed-circuit-television speech to a medical convention in Las Vegas Saturday night, Mills said Phase 2 is "simply not working."

Mills told the Federation of American Hospitals convention he would head off what he called a drift toward socialized growth of privately owned hospitals to counter spiraling medical costs.

Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, campaigning in Gofftown, N.H., Sunday, criticized Democratic frontrunner Edmund S. Muskie for what he called the Maine senator's support of some militant groups.

Yorty made the remark in a statement calling for public support of law enforcement agencies fighting terrorist activities in the United States.

In another development Sunday, the Gallup Poll reported Muskie remains the frontrunner in the race for the Democratic nomination but has dropped four percentage points since January while Humphrey has gained three.

A Gallup spokesman said the poll, conducted Feb. 4-7, showed Muskie drawing 35 per cent of the Democratic vote and Humphrey 32.

The conservative United Republicans of California, which held a three-day conference originally convened to organize a dump-Nixon effort, shelved two resolutions Sunday calling for endorsement of Rep. John N. Ashbrook of Ohio and one seeking endorsement of Nixon. Ashbrook is a conservative challenging the President for the GOP nomination.

Rep. Clarence Brown Conference Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, has been named director of the 1972 Candidates' Conference here next summer.

The conference, scheduled June 29 through July 2, will instruct Republicans seeking house seats on campaign techniques, financing, roles of campaign managers, relations with the news media and legal requirements.

Aaron Henry, chairman of the predominantly black Loyalist faction of the Mississippi Democratic party, said he was sure his faction would again be seated at the party's national convention. The Loyalists are opposed by the state's Regular Democrats led by Gov. Bill Waller.

Foyt Wins Daytona 500 With Average 161.550 MPH

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A. J. Foyt, just a month past his 37th birthday, has finally become a member in good standing of what is known among Southern stock car drivers as "The Good Ole Boy's Club."

He won the Daytona 500, most prestigious of all the big money events for stock sedans Sunday and he did it in such convincing fashion that several NASCAR regulars went to victory lane to clap him on his sweat-stained shoulders.

"If it couldn't have been one of us, I'm glad it was him," said fourth-place finisher Benny Parsons, an ex-Detroit cab driver. Parsons, long a member of the "club," was born in North Wilkesboro, N.C.

Foyt had tried several times to win the Daytona 500, and when he did he dominated the big one as no other driver has since Richard Petty's first victory in 1964.

He led the high speed chase around the 2.5-mile Daytona International Speedway for 167 laps—Petty was in front of the 1964 race for 183 laps—and was four miles ahead of the poppy-red Dodge of No. 2 finisher Charlie Glotzbach when the 17 survivors were flagged to a halt.

Third place went to Jim Vandiver, whose Dodge was 15 miles to the rear.

The Texan covered the 200 laps in 3 hours, 5 minutes and 42 seconds for a record average speed of 161.550 miles per hour.

Foyt, whose career began in midgets in 1953 and includes three triumphs at Indianapolis, victory in the 24-hours of Le Mans and five USAC driving titles, was paid $38,400 from the $178,000 purse.

Foyt's victory, so easy that many of the 100,000 fans had left the vast arena before it was over, was made easier by attrition that felled most of the strong cars early in the race.

Bobby Isaac, the pole sitter who qualified a Dodge at 186 m.p.h., lost a cylinder and commented, "I couldn't keep up, so I quit ... and I don't quit easily."

Petty, stock car racing's all-time events winner and, like Foyt, a $1 million winner, pulled his sputtering red-and-blue Plymouth behind the wall after 80 laps. But the shock-haired Petty had swapped the lead with Foyt several times after flashing through the pack from a 32nd starting position. Petty was credited with leading the race for 32 laps.

The only other leader was Bobby Allison, No. 2 in 1971 winnings behind Petty. Allison's Chevrolet was slowed almost to a walk by an engine that misfired almost from the start. He held on doggedly, but finished 16th.

Blancas Wins At Phoenix In Playoff With Wadkins

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "That's two in a row. But I'll get there yet," rookie Lanny Wadkins vowed.

Wadkins lost a sudden-death playoff to Homero Blancas for the title in the $125,000 Phoenix

Open Golf Tournament Sunday, finishing second for the second time in as many weeks.

The 22-year-old former National Amateur champion from Wake Forest spun out a 20-foot birdie putt that would have won it on the 72nd hole, then bowed to Blancas' birdie four on the first extra hole.

The victory was worth $25,000 to the swarthy Blancas, a 33-year-old from Houston who scored his fourth tour victory. Wadkins pulled down $14,300 for second.

Blancas, who missed a four-foot birdie putt that would have nailed it down on the final hole, had a last round 69, two-under-par on the 6,641-yard Phoenix Country Club course. Wadkins, playing in only his 12th professional event, closed up with a sparkling 66 and caught Blancas at the end of the regulation 72 holes at 273.

Marty Fleckman came out of the pack to take third with a 68—274 as Tony Jacklin of England and outsider Paul Moran shot themselves out of contention late in the round.

"The playoff was kind of a give-away," Blancas said. "Then it got down to a putting contest and I was lucky enough to win that."

Wadkins pushed his tee shot on the par five playoff hole into some trees, had to hit a three-wood second shot under branches and then hit a sand wedge over more trees to within about 13 feet of the flag.

Blancas hit a poor second shot behind trees but stroked a sand wedge over them to within four feet. Wadkins missed his putt and Homero sank his for his first victory since the 1970 Colonial National Invitation.

Robinson, Wills Sign Contracts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Frank Robinson and Maury Wills, the heart of the Los Angeles Dodgers' pennant hopes, have signed their 1972 baseball contracts for a total estimated near a quarter-million dollars.

Robinson, the 36-year-old outfielder acquired from the Baltimore Orioles for four players during the winter, signed Sunday for about $140,000. It was $10,000 more than he made with the Orioles and $10,000 less than he was seeking with his new team.

Wills, the longtime shortstop and team leader, joined the Dodgers for a salary in the $100,000 range.

Robinson and Wills were the biggest names in a day of player signings that also included Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees.

Murcer, the Yankees' leading hitter last season with a .331 average, signed for $65,000.

Shortstop Gene Alley signed for an estimated $25,000 with the Pittsburgh Pirates, leaving only two of the World Champions unsigned—shortstop Fran Taveras and pitcher Nelson Briles.

In Casa Grande, Ariz., San Francisco Giants President Horace Stoneham arrived at camp asking the whereabouts of his pitching mainstay, Juan Marichal.

Not only did Stoneham express surprise at the absence of Marichal, who reportedly seeks a $150,000 contract, but he said, "I don't even know how much he wants because he's never contacted me."

Esposito, Bruins Top Black Hawks, 3-1

CHICAGO (AP) — The brothers Esposito don't discuss their hockey exploits against each other but if Tony Esposito should start, brother Phil Esposito feels he now can counter-attack.

"He stopped me twice on breakaways last year," Phil said "but if he ever says anything, I now have a little ammunition."

Phil got the ammunition with a pair of goals to celebrate his 30th birthday Sunday

Toledo Trips Up BGSU, 65-42

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Toledo's best defensive performance of the year has the Rockets sailing along as the sole leaders in the Mid-American Conference basketball chase.

"The backbone of the game was our man-to-man defense was excellent for 40 minutes," said Toledo coach Bob Nichols of a 65-42 romp at Bowling Green Saturday night.

The victory jumped Toledo ahead of idle Ohio University in the Mid-American, 6-2 to 5-2. Kent State, 5-3, remained in contention with a 75-69 home verdict over Western Michigan.

Meanwhile, eighth-ranked Ohio State finds itself out of the Big Ten lead after falling at Illinois 64-62. Minnesota became the lone pacesetter with a 76-73 victory over Wisconsin.

The Buckeyes are 7-3 and the Gophers 8-2 with four conference games remaining for each.

Defending champion Capital slipped back into the Ohio Conference lead with a 62-56 home triumph over Wooster, knocking the Scots into second place.

The Crusaders, who hit 18 of 26 free throws to 12 of 19 for Wooster, need a victory over visiting Kenyon to wrap up the OC title with a 10-1 mark.

In other major contests, Miami beat Cleveland State 64-37 on the boards in a 96-58 rout and Cincinnati, 14-8, clinched a 19th straight winning season with a 97-79 thumping of George Washington.

Dayton registered its 12th victory in 23 games, bringing home an 80-77 decision from Biscayne.

Although Tom Kozelko scored 25 points, 23 in the second half, Nichols gave No. 4 forward Bob Repp credit for the Rockets' second half surge.

"We put him at the high points. He did a tremendous job of passing, really setting up Kozelko," said the Toledo mentor.

Meanwhile, Toledo's sticky defense held Bowling Green to its lowest total of the season and only 18 points in the second half.

Toledo, however, has some big hurdles upcoming before it can even think of an NCAA Tournament bid.

The Rockets visit South Carolina Wednesday and are home for Ohio University Saturday and face a season-ending trip to Kent State.

Ohio State blew an 11-point lead in the second half and lost the game on free throws at Illinois. The Buckeyes cashed only 12 of 28 foul shots, 22 fewer than the Illinois (34 of 46).

"We missed enough free throws to win a lot of games," said Ohio State coach Fred Taylor.

"It was a very aggressive game and the way we were shooting we really needed a lot of free throws," Illini mentor Harv Schmidt said.

The Buckeyes had a chance to tie it with four seconds left, but an inbound pass intended for Jack Wolfe sailed out of bounds.

"We were trying to lob the ball to the backside," explained Taylor. "We were trying to get it to Wolfe because we felt Hornyak would be covered."

Hornyak led the Buckeyes with 23 points. Nick Weatherston put in 20 points for the Illini, including a jump shot with 48 seconds left for a 63-62 lead.

Wittenberg, 8-2 in the league, stayed alive in the Ohio Conference race with a 69-62 decision at Marietta.

Elsewhere in the Ohio Conference, Ohio Wesleyan nipped Oberlin 79-77, Muskingum beat Baldwin-Wallace 74-68 and Mount Union defeated Heidelberg 73-65.

In other games, it was: Kenyon 81, Ohio Dominican 76; Bluffton 104, Cedarville 88; Findlay 82, Anderson 65; Kentucky State 109, Central State 73; Youngstown State 86, Steubenville 61; Wayne State 87, Ohio Northern 64; Urbana 94, Walsh 86 in overtime; Akron 63, Kentucky Wesleyan 59; De fiance 97, Malone 94; Washington and Jefferson 74, Case Western Reserve 65; Hiram 89, Allegheny 77.

Laurelville ended the 1971-72 basketball season losing to Southeastern of Ross County, 96-98. The Wildcats closed with a 9-11 overall record.

In the tournament draw held Sunday the Wildcats were matched with Union Furnace, a team they have lost to twice this year.

The tournament game will be played 7 p.m. Saturday at Nelsonville - York. The second game is between Crooksville (4-14) and Glouster (4-14). Top seeded teams in the district are Alexander (15-3) and Miller (13-5).

The winner of the Laurelville - Union Furnace game will play Alexander and the winner of the Crooksville - Glouster tilt will meet Miller in the semi-finals

Butch Gearhart Wins Bowling Championship

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Southpaw Butch Gearhart of Houston, Tex., has won his fourth Professional Bowlers Association championship and is $10,000 richer.

Not for men only.

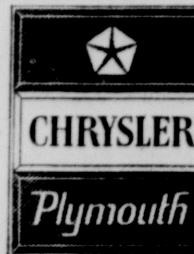

1972 Chrysler

When you think of a Chrysler, you think of a big, strong, handsome car. A man's kind of car. Right? Not completely.

Women, too, go for Chrysler. And, most often, for the same reasons as men.

They like the good looks. They like the roominess. And who wouldn't? Automotive Industries reports that the '72 Chrysler has the largest interior of any 1972 U.S. car. But women, especially, like the way they can count on Chrysler to get them where they want to go... without a lot of trouble. Every Chrysler is built with a commitment to deep-down quality. Every Chrysler is built to last.

Isn't that the kind of car people really want? Men and women alike. We think so. Come in and let us show you a big new Chrysler today.

Nationalist China Assembly Raps Nixon Trip To Peking

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist China's National Assembly, meeting to re-elect Chiang Kai-shek president, began work today with a blast at President Nixon's trip to Peking.

The 1,308 delegates adopted a resolution by acclamation which said the visit and its timing seriously damaged Chinese national rights and interests.

It reiterated last Thursday's Foreign Ministry statement that Chiang's government will not recognize any agreements Nixon may reach in Peking, that the Communist regime has no right to represent the Chinese people, and that the Nationalists will not give up their goal of overthrowing the Peking regime.

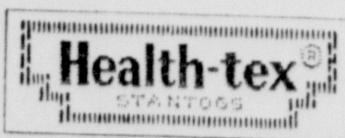

The resolution specified that

SAMMY'S WISH — Sammy Davis Jr., is shown with actor Carroll O'Connor, who portrays a bigot on the TV series "All in the Family," during a rehearsal. Davis said he has wanted to appear on the show since the first broadcast. In this segment, O'Connor plays a cab driver, and Davis plays himself. (AP Wirephoto)

Isn't it good to know you've got a friend?

Good friends are always there when you need them. To play with, laugh with and share things with. One good friend even makes your clothes. Health-tex. For boys and girls Health-tex has made knit shirt polos that come in smile-plenty stripes and nubbly textured solids. Mom says Health-tex is her best friend on wash days. Because polyester and cotton permanent press means less work and more smiles.

Nicaragua Respects Hughes' Desire For Quiet, Privacy

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Mystery billionaire Howard Hughes is here to discuss the sale of airplanes and a possible airline merger—and perhaps to find peace, the president of Nicaragua says.

Stepping off a twin-jet plane to a 21-gun artillery salute and military band music after a state visit to Panama, President Anastasio Somoza spoke of Hughes' visit as he told newsmen:

"Let's not make so much fanfare about the matter. If he wants to be respected and let alone, that's his business."

Demo Governors Given Chalk Talk

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Democratic governors get a political chalk talk today on how to keep their states out of President Nixon's win column in the November election.

The chief executives will hear a political media consultant and an elections analyst tell them where they think the Republican ticket is vulnerable—and how to take advantage of it.

Joe Napolitan, the consultant who managed much of Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential campaign in 1968, and Richard Scammon, co-author of "The Real Majority," will give the governors a pre-campaign lecture.

Evangelist's Office Burns

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Evangelist Leroy Jenkins said Sunday a fire that gutted part of his two-story office building near here did more than $250,000 damage, most of it to property inside the building.

The blaze burned nearly five hours before firemen brought it under control. Investigators were looking into the possibility that a faulty furnace might have started the fire.

Tri Township Volunteer Fire Department Chief Rex Scott said the state fire marshal's was being called to investigate, but added he did not think arson was involved.

OHP Commends Local Motorist

Two weekend accidents investigated by the Highway Patrol involved Pickaway County residents, all who escaped injury.

On Sunday, at 11:40 a.m., a semi truck driver lost control of his vehicle and went into the Hartman farm vineyards, knocking down three concrete posts, but without injury to himself.

Patrolmen report the accident came about as the truck was being passed by an auto driven by Donald A. Younkin, 385 Kingston Pike, while both vehicles were southbound on Route 23 in Franklin County. The Younkin auto had pulled up just beside the trailer when the truck driver pulled out to pass another car.

Highway patrolmen commended Younkin's reaction, which was to pull his auto into the median strip. He was able to control his vehicle even though the ground was muddy, and avoid a collision.

The truck driver, noticing Younkin's vehicle, applied his brakes, lost control and went off the right side of the road into the field.

A Saturday afternoon accident caused extensive damage to a vehicle owned by Mary Elizabeth Byerly, Route 1, Orient.

Mrs. Byerly was headed north on Route 65 at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and stopped to make a left turn into a private drive. Her car was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Charles Everett Bolender, Georgetown. Bolender was cited for failure to keep assured clear distance ahead.
